Saturday, Auguſt 19 1704

From the Leid. Gaz. & Harl. Cour. dated Aug. 7 & 19.

Montmeillan, July 25. & Auguſt 1.

OUR Parties have lately gain'd ſeveral Advantages over the French Troops that keep this Place block'd up; particularly the 13th of this Month, 300 Men commanded by Lieutenant Collonel Guidt of the Regiment of Reding attack'd Monſieur Marſilli, General of the ſaid French Forces, who was poſted at Chavane with 1000 Men of Regular and Militia Troops; And that with ſo much Vigour, that they put him to the Rout. Our Men pillag'd and burnt his Camp; and return'd into this Place with ſome Baggage and Horſes, and 2 Pieces of Cannon; having had in the Action but 1 Captain wounded in the Arm, and 32 Soldiers kill'd or wounded. The 14th Count Santenaz our Governour, caus'd Te Deum to be Sung, and the Artillery to be fir'd, for this Advantage. And the ſame day the 2 Pieces of Cannon we took from the Enemies, were planted on our Works, in order to be employ'd againſt them. We receive Reinforcements daily from the Marqueſs de Parella, which come to us in ſmall Parties, ſo that our Garriſon, which in the beginning of the Blockade was but 1500 Men ſtrong, is now increas'd to 2500, and tho' we have been block'd up two Months, we have as great Plenty of Proviſions as at firſt. The 31ſt of July a Spy was hang'd on the Wall; he was a Lieutenant of Carabineers, and came to us as a Deſerter, but it was diſcover'd his true Buſineſs was, to give Intelligence to the Marqueſs of Marſilli of all that paſs'd in this Place.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated Acguſt 19.

From the King of Poland's Camp near Landſhut, July 28. Tomorrow or next day we ſhall continue our March to joyn the Muſcovite Troops, a League beyond Jariſlow, whither they are order'd to repair; Mean time the King has reſolv'd to leave a Garriſon in Landſhut, and another in Reſckow. The Troops lately come from Saxony, are in the Country about Poſnania in Great Poland, and raiſe heavy Contributions on the Lands of thoſe that are in the Confederacy againſt the King. Yeſterday an Expreſs arriv'd here, from his Majeſty's Envoy who has follow'd the Czar of Muſcovy into the Field; with Advice that General Slippenbach who commands in Livonia for the King of Sweden, had lately made an Attempt to Succour Nerva, and advanc'd in ſight of that Place with the Body of Forces he commands, but was repuls'd by the Muſcovites, and loſt a great many Men and Horſes, as well as 500 Waggons loaded with Proviſions, which he intended to have put into the Place; That the Blockade of that Town was turn'd into a Siege; and that the Czar in Perſon was come to it with more Troops; that his Czariſh Majeſty had caus'd the Trenches to be open'd before it, and intended to attack it formally as ſoon as his heavy Artillery (which he expected every day) had joyn'd him. The Courier that brought this News adds, that when he came away the Garriſon of Dorpat had beat a Parley and offer'd to capitulate. In to days Seſſion of the Great Council call'd to meet here by his Polith Majeſty, a large Manifeſto was read, in which the Senators and Nobility of the Reipu Confederacy form'd at Sendomir declare, that all the Rights and Liberties of the Nation have been violated by the King of Sweden and his Adherents, proteſt againſt the pretended Election of a new King, as illegal, and declare the Palatine of Poſnania a Rebel and Enemy of his Country. The King has thank'd the Aſſembly for their Loyalty and Zeal for his Service, and has reſolv'd to cauſe the ſaid Manifeſto to be printed, and to ſend it to the Courts of Foreign Potentates.

Warſaw, Auguſt 4. The new King is preparing to go from hence very ſhortly with 8000 Men, but 'tis not known which way he will bend his March; the King of Sweden continues his March towards King Auguſtus of Poland, who is in a Condition to make Head againſt him, and has lately taken two Caſtles in which he found 60 Pieces of braſs Cannon; ſince which he is march'd towards Jariſlow, to meet Prince Galitzen who is advancing to his Succour with 19000 Muſcovites or Coſſacks. The King of Sweden's Letter to the Palatin of Poſnania upon his being Elected King, runs thus.

'Having always had an Affection for your Majeſty's Perſon, we notifie to you the great Joy given us by your Letter, which inform'd us of your being elected by the general Conſent of the confederated Nobility, to the Dignity your Virtues merit: We do not Doubt your Majeſty makes ſure Account we will promote your Intereſt; And as it has been all along our Intention to maintain the ancient Band of Friendſhip between us and the Republick of Poland, we congratulate the Nobility of the ſame on their chooſing a King, whoſe Virtue and prudent Conduct may reeſtabliſh their Affairs, and we rejoyce we have ſuch a Neighbour, whoſe Fidelity we know is inviolable, and of whoſe Affection for us we are well ſatisfied. We beſeech God long to preſerve your Majeſty, as an Ornament among Men, and ſo to proſper the beginning of your Reign, that your Majeſty may reeſtabliſh and ſecure the Republick, whoſe Reins of Government you have taken into your Hands, that you may pacifie its Troubles, and acquire a Reputation worthy your ſelf, and that may deſcend to your Poſterity after you.

Your Majeſty's good Brother,
Friend and Neighbour,
CHARLES.

The Czar will next attack Nerva vigorouſly with an Army of 30000 Men.
